What are the challenges of today's urbanizations?

Within the context of a world ever more urban and a seemingly ever growing number and magnitude of urban challenges, several higher education institutions all over the world have in recent years thought about 'global learning' to expand and strengthen their competences in the realms of architecture and urban planning. And in doing so, they respond to the complex challenges associated with today's 'urban age'. This unit is part of the international network of urban laboratories Urban Lab+ and funded as a EU programme. This module can be coupled with Städtebau I/II by the Habitat Unit or the U-Lab.
